From Travis Jones, MBA; president and founder of Travis J Consulting:

I'm just a straightforward, simple, down-home East Texas guy that likes to work hard, shoot straight, meet people, establish relationships, and learn. I have no hidden agendas or ulterior motives; and I do honest, quality, and thorough work. I strongly believe in and I work with the idea that business environments in which two entities work together should do so in a fashion that is mutually beneficial, in order to establish strong business relationships.

I take on only as much business as is feasible for me right now so that I may best serve the clients and organizations with whom and with which I have a relationship and work.

Travis J Consulting's mission statement is, "It's not about Travis J Consulting". I say that purposefully because when I work with you, it is your company and your organization's goals that matter.
